$937,000 UNION HIGH SCHOOL IS PLANNED BY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Total Estimate Exceeding Bond Issue Is Met by Plan to Sell Old Plant to Provide Additional Funds to Make Up Deficiency

WOULD SAVE CUT IN LARGE AUDITORIUM
Plan Would Accommodate 3000 Pupils, Which Gives Capacity and 300 Additional Accommodations in 1923 and Allows for 1924 Classes

The proposed Glendale union high school buildings will cost about $937,000, according to plans and estimates furnished by Architects Austin and Lindsay to the school trustees at their meeting Saturday night. Bonds for $600,000 for this purpose were voted some time ago, but this amount will be insufficient to finance the erection of the high school plant that is needed. The board plans to cover the discrepancy by the sale of the old plant.

The estimated cost of the separate items of the proposed plant is as follows:

Main building with auditorium . . . $593,000
Science building . . . 89,000
Two gymnasiums . . . 150,000
Two shop buildings . . . 40,000
Furnishings for the building . . . 50,000
Track and field equipment . . . 15,000

To eliminate the construction of the auditorium at this time would cut down the total cost by $150,000, but to add this section, which is a vital part of the general scheme, later, would cost $200,000, so that $50,000 would be saved by building the auditorium at the same time as the remainder of the buildings.

In reaching the estimates listed above the architects have taken into consideration several other high school buildings designed by them in Southern California at comparatively recent dates. Among these buildings were the Citrus Union high school, the Long Beach high school, the Long Beach Junior high and several other school buildings. The figures were not derived from hurriedly, but after careful, painstaking study. After considering the cost of the various buildings already erected, average cost figures were ascertained and these were used in forming an estimate of the cost of the proposed buildings for Glendale high.

In their instructions from the board the designers were told to bring in plans of a high school system capable of taking care of 3000 pupils. It will be seen that the board is not looking too far ahead when it is known that by the time the buildings are completed in 1923, they will be filled to within 300 of capacity, providing the city continues to grow in the future as it has in the past, and it is reasonable to expect that it will. The present plant is capable of handling 1000 pupils in comfort, but at this time 1400 students are being crowded into it. The enrollment of the school has exceeded all expectations, and there is no reason why this increase should not continue at its present rate. To relieve this overcrowded condition and to provide for at least a year to come, is the aim of the board.

It is believed by every member of the board that the buildings as proposed, are as compact and well-arranged as it is possible to make them. Nothing is being wasted in over-large rooms, all of them being standard or a trifle under-sized. In fact, it was shown to be one of the most economical, so far as both space and money are concerned, of any set of school buildings in the country. The designers of these buildings have planned many of the larger school buildings in California and in the proposed buildings for Glendale high, they have put all the short cuts, practical ideas and conveniences gained through designing all of the other structures.

The Los Angeles high school was named as a comparison to the buildings proposed to be erected here. While at this time the Los Angeles high school would cost about $1,500,000 to erect, it is capable of comfortably accommodating only 2000 pupils. Compare with this the proposed buildings for Glendale high, which will cost less than $1,000,000. This will show that in the buildings proposed for this place, every inch of available space has been made use of. Not a foot is wasted. All of the various departments, necessities and conveniences have been so dovetailed as to give the greatest amount of space with the least amount of expenditure.

DOFF YOUR HAT WHEN THE COLORS ARE PASSING, SAYS MAYOR IN PROCLAMATION

"Be it known to all people living in Glendale that I, as mayor of this city, proclaim July 4, a day of peace, dedicated to the patriotic observance of a day hallowed in the memory of all Americans as the birthday of a nation of people free and equal with a right to life and the pursuit of happiness.

"On July 4, 1776, the first Congress of this great nation assembled and composed the Declaration of Independence, at Philadelphia. They declared what was destined to become the greatest nation of the world, free. Free of the oppressions and tyranny of a despotic king!

"In composing and signing this Declaration of Independence they laid the foundation of a nation that proclaimed its freedom under the Stars and Stripes; that banner that has stood and always will stand for bravery, truth and freedom!

"It is fitting that on this day, and in honor of these staunch and tried Americans, that I, as mayor of this city, declare July 4, 1922, a day hallowed by their act, and urge that all people set aside commercial pursuits and do honor to the nation and the flag. It is also fitting that I urge a deeper respect to the flag of our nation. On this day, and on each succeeding day, let me urge that every one in Glendale pay respect to the beautiful emblem of this country!

"When the flag of our country passes let no man fail to stand, with head bared, and a heart filled with reverence. Let no woman fail to stand silent as the flag of our country passes. Let every child pay honor to the flag as it passes. It is YOUR flag and MY flag, and stands for FREEDOM and UNITY, the ideals of America, the greatest nation of all. OUR COUNTRY!
SPENCER ROBINSON,
Mayor of Glendale."

Einstein Has One Earnest Convert Here

LOS ANGELES, July 3.—Professor Einstein's visit to America was not in vain.

Because Prof. A. A. Michelson, who is here from Chicago university, not only understands his theory, but is going to make a test of it.

Prof. Michelson, one of the best known physicists in the world, is at the Mount Wilson observatory for the purpose of conducting a series of experiments to remeasure the velocity of light to prove or disprove the theory of relativity, he states.

Michelson will also attempt to corral a solitary electron for scientific observation, it is understood.

CHILD INJURED BY AUTOMOBILE

While the letter carriers' band was playing in front of the new postoffice Saturday afternoon, an automobile, driven by Mrs. M. Goulding, 546 North Maryland avenue, struck 10-year-old Irene Acosta and injured her slightly. The accident occurred at the intersection of Central and Ivy streets.

FOURTEEN ENTER NET TOURNAMENT FOR CUP

Competition to Be Strong for Glendale Daily Press Cup

Fourteen Glendale tennis artists have enrolled in summer tennis tournaments that are to be held on the high school courts during the months of July and August. It is expected that at least fifty will enter this tournament and the first games are played. Those wishing to compete for the cup that have been offered by the Glendale Daily Press, should send in their names at once, either to Physical Director Hayhurst, who can be seen any afternoon during July, on the high school grounds, or to the Glendale Daily Press.

A number of local handball players have enrolled for the handball tournament. Others are invited to take part in this tournament, also, the Glendale Press will give a silver trophy. Unusual interest is being shown in these events, which promise to be among the leading features in Glendale during the summer.

VERDUGO GAS IS UP TO RAILROAD COMMISSION

Asked to Approve Selling of Bonds for Installation of Improvement

The Railroad commission was asked today to approve of a contract by which the Southern California Gas company agrees to buy from the city of Glendale certain gas distributing mains, which the city proposes to install in Verdugo Woodland. The city, according to the contract, undertakes to form a municipal improvement district and to sell bonds in the sum of $48,750 to pay the cost of installation of the mains. The company agrees to repay the city on the basis of the number of consumers connected with the system.

EUROPEAN ARMY LIMITATION PLAN

PARIS, July 3.—Plan for the limitation of European armies was submitted to the disarmament commission of the league of nations by Lord Escher of England today.

France, 180,000; Poland and Italy, 120,000; England, Greece, Rumania, Jugoslavia, Spain and Czechoslovakia, 90,000, and Belgium and Switzerland, 60,000.

The G. A. R. Picnic

The G. A. R. picnic will be held tomorrow. Everyone is invited. It will be held at Sycamore grove, Los Angeles.

The unthinking, bound for pleasure, should pause, read that notice again. Then again.

These picnics of the G. A. R. are yearly becoming more historic events. In a comparatively few years they will become leaves in the past history of the nation.

These old men in blue in their closing days personify some of the most glorious patriotic days of the nation.

When they are gone to join their comrades sleeping, some on the hillsides of their native towns, now grown to great cities; some where they fell, on the battlefields, there will be no more such picnics. There will be no longer a chance to take the little ones to shake hands with the men who preserved the Union for these days of peace and plenty.

The men in blue are in battle now, as they battled years ago for life in the conflict. This time it is a losing battle. And they know it. They are fighting for the last days of their time.

Faithful to the high ideals that inspired their youth, they are standing by the nation in these picnics that are so generally disregarded. For in these picnics they strive to breathe into the national life that eternal patriotism that exalted them in the dark days and uplifted them through the days that followed, even to this day.

It will be a proud recollection to the youth of today to remember in middle age that he shook hands, talked with these heroes of '64. Learned from their lips and their anecdotes some of the stories of the bitter conflicts of brother against brother in civil war, now unthinkable.

Each of these picnics affords the thinking parent of this day an opportunity to plant imperishably in the young minds of their children that impression of devotion to flag and country.

So the Glendale Daily Press asks you, as a duty to your children to go to the picnic tomorrow? If you have not an automobile, it is still possible. A car can be secured to South Pasadena at Sixth and Main streets, Los Angeles.

Make it a historic trip for the little ones. The men in blue will greet you cordially and appreciate your coming, in the spirit of national unity.

SUPERB PROGRAM OF RADIO MUSIC TO BE BROADCASTED BY PRESS-NEWTON TONIGHT

Reports From All Directions Indicate That the Service Is Clear Throughout All the Musical Numbers; Saturday's Results Reviewed

"We hear you above all," states Eagle Rock. "Your music clearest of all stations," says Tujunga. "You are as loud and are clearer than any station broadcasting," statement from Burbank.

"We can pick you out much better than the Los Angeles stations, running at the same time," Edendale. "Only trouble is, that it doesn't last long enough," San Fernando.

"Your modulation, combined with audibility, far surpasses any of the stations heard," Azusa.

Consequently, KFAC has gained the reputation of being the most perfectly modulated station, which means clearness of voice and music. Mr. Wilkenson, of Tujunga states: "I can understand every word spoken and my wife and I cannot thank you enough for the quality of the programs you are giving." He is one of the many, making the same statement. Everyone is beginning to realize that the Press-Newton station is a station worthy of their attention and that this station is serving them a program of real entertainment and one of variety.

At the conclusion of Saturday evening's program, every trunk on the telephone was occupied by telephone calls from all over. Some of them were long distance and two men were kept busy saying hello, and receiving the reports, and the best of it, there was not one complaint. Everyone was enthusiastic and wanted to know when KFAC would again be on the air. The answer to that question is, 3 to 3:15 Monday afternoon and again at 8 to 9 P. M. Monday night. The afternoon time will be occupied with new items and the evening program is a concert, which is published elsewhere on this page.

Radio enthusiasts tuned up to KFAC's wave length which is slightly under 360 meters, were entertained by a violin solo played by Virgel Drenberg, a solo vocal and encore by Mrs. Irwin Bullock who was accompanied by Mrs. T. R. Yates, also Miss Marion Jones, who is a master of modern music on the piano, favored the many listeners with two popular selections, namely, "St. Louis Blues," and another. Dr. Joseph Marple brought the program to a close, accompanied by Mrs. Marple on the piano, rendering two selections entitled "Open the Gates to the Temple" and "Mother Machree." Every number on the program has been acclaimed as wonderful, by all.

The many radio fans are to again be entertained tonight with a very exceptional program beginning at 8 P. M. Mr. Edward Moniot will open the program giving two selections on his banjo, Mr. Moniot will be followed by a vocal solo rendered by Mr. Henry C. Cantor, who has sung on the Times, Examiner and Earl C. Anthony programs and has been highly praised by all listeners.

Consequently, this news will be an inducement to all to make an extra effort to get near a radiophone receiving station this evening. Miss Mildred Pray who has been heard before on the Press-Newton program and who has been highly complimented, is returning this evening and will very likely render a concert waltz. Mr. Earl Mayo of Glendale will bring the program to a close by entertaining with three saxophone solos of popular music.

CHICAGO, July 3.—The railroad shop crafts union, which called a strike Saturday, lost all standing before the United States railroad labor board today.

The board declared the strikers' organization would be no longer recognized and urged that the men who remained in the employment of the railroads together with newly employed men, form an organization to take the place of the shop crafts union.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES AT DEDICATION

Central Christian Church Is the Scene of Consecration

$85,000 IS TOTAL COST

Ceremony Witnessed by Hundreds of Members and Friends

The beautiful new building of the Central Christian church was dedicated Sunday, July 2, with very impressive ceremonies and free of debt, with Rev. George L. Snively as dedicatory.

Up to the time of beginning the construction, on this wonderful house of worship, $20,000 in pledges and cash had been secured. It was found that upon completion, the edifice cost approximately $85,000, which left a balance of $65,000 to be raised. This amount and $10,000 more was secured through pledges on Sunday morning, making a total of $75,000 raised, which will insure the installation of a pipe organ.

Rev. Snively gave the morning address on "The Fundamentals of Our Faith." Special music by the choir and a vocal solo, "The King of Love My Shepherd Is," by Mrs. Floyd Mercer, was enjoyed.

Following the morning service, luncheon was served to about 300 members and friends in the beautiful banquet hall in the basement. The tables were artistically decorated in many varieties of flowers and the luncheon was served by the ladies of the church.

At 2:30 the memorial and communion service was held, with special music by the choir, under the direction of Mrs. Calvin Whitling. C. C. Chapman of Fullerton gave a splendid address on "The Old Days, the Old Friends, and the Old Ways." Memorial addresses were given by A. B. Heacock and W. B. Kirk, in memory of prominent workers in the church who have passed on. Most all of the Christian church of Los Angeles were represented and several made generous pledges toward the new building.

As there was plenty of food which had not been used at the noon luncheon, a great many enjoyed their evening luncheon also, after which the dedicatory service was held. Rev. John H. LeGrande delivered the address on "Keeping the Faith." Rev. LeGrande will conduct revival services at the church beginning tonight and lasting for a period of two weeks.

The keys to the new building were then turned over by Floyd Mercer, chairman of the building committee to W. B. Clark, representing the trustees. Felicitations from other churches of Glendale were brought by Rev. C. M. Calderwood of the First Congregational church.

Following this, 25 new members were received into the church, Baptist services will be held next Sunday night. The prayer of dedication then marked the close of a wonderful day in the history of the church.

The Christian church offers a hearty welcome to anyone who may enter its doors. They are invited to prayer and praise and to Christian fellowship. It welcomes to membership anyone who believes that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, and who recognizes that Lordship in a life of obedience.

CHAIN LETTER NUISANCE HERE

The chain letter nuisance has reached Glendale and penetrated the city hall. The letters addressed to Mayor Robinson and City Manager W. H. Reeves, however, did not continue their journey. They were assigned to the waste basket. The letters received at the city hall are only two of the many that have been received by various people in this city. It is probable that some action will be taken to stop this nuisance. The sending of chain letters through the mail has been pronounced unlawful by the United States government.

COAL ARBITERS ARE SUGGESTED

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The Harding coal conference today adjourned until next Monday without taking any definite action toward settlement of the national strike. An announcement was made by government officials at the conference following secret caucus of the operating factions on the government's suggestion that a small arbitration committee be appointed to lay foundation for a settlement.

"We hope there will be more chance of an agreement after the miners and operators have been home and talked things over with their people," Secretary of Commerce Hoover declared, after the conference had adjourned.

MASS MEETING TO CONSIDER SALE OF OLD HIGH SCHOOL PLANT

Trustees Act When Figures Exceed Bond Issue Recently Voted for New Construction Are Submitted by Architects in Final Estimate

EVENING OF FRIDAY, JULY 14, IS DATE SET

From $400,000 to $600,000 May Be Obtained to Be Added to Fund for the New Building of Citizens' Vote to Dispose of Property

A mammoth mass meeting to consider the raising of additional funds for the construction of the proposed new high school is being called for Friday, July 14, by the board of trustees of the Glendale union high school. Almost $400,000 additional to the $600,000 already voted will be needed if the buildings that are under consideration are to be erected. It is for the purpose of considering the raising of this additional amount that this meeting has been called.

On the order of the school trustees, the designers, John C. Austin and George Lindsay, have drawn plans for a building that will accommodate 3000 pupils. At the present time there are 1400 pupils in Glendale high. This enrollment represents an increase over last year of 40 per cent. It is reasonable to expect that the Glendale union high school district will grow as rapidly in the years to come as it did this year. Should this percentage of growth occur there will be 1960 pupils in the local high school in 1922 and 2700 in 1923, at the time when the building will be ready for occupancy. By this it will be seen that while at first glance the plans may seem to be a little "overdrawn," the trustees are really planning to accommodate only 300 more than will probably apply for admission at the time of the opening of the new school. The year 1924 will probably see the school entirely filled.

Hours and hours of thought, study and consideration have been given to this matter by the school trustees, and as a result the board has at least one concrete suggestion to offer to the taxpayers of the city. This is as follows:

That the present high school site be sold and the funds derived therefrom be used to pay the additional cost of the new high school buildings over the amount of the bonds already voted. It is believed that from the sale of this property at least $450,000 could be realized. If this amount could be secured it would take care of the additional amount needed without any more bond issues or worry of any kind.

Another method of raising this additional amount is by voting bonds. At this time the high school district is bonded almost to the limit, but with the increased assessed valuation of Glendale this year, more bonds, possibly $200,000, could be voted. This, however, would be adequate, and some other method, if possible, would have to be devised for raising an additional $200,000.

The proposition of selling the present site seems, to the trustees, the only method of procedure open for serious consideration. The board proposes to invite two different committees of prominent real estate and building men to carefully estimate the present value of the grounds and buildings and to report their findings to the board at or before July 14 mass meeting. Those who will be invited to act on the site committee are as follows: J. A. Endicott of the firm of Endicott & Larson, chairman; Charles B. Guthrie, J. R. Gray, E. P. Hayward, H. V. Henry, W. B. Kelly and Arthur Campbell. The local builders who will be asked to assist in estimating the value of the building will be Roy Kent, chairman; H. E. Rommel and W. G. Boyd.

With the reports of these committees before them the board will place the matter squarely before the people and it will be strictly up to them to decide. The board is taking nothing in its own hands. It is simply doing the grinding operation—the refining process—and it is believed all this will be completed in time for presentation to the people of the district at the mass meeting. The board will lay its cards on the table, face up, and will say:

"We have labored long and hard. These are our findings. We come to you for instruction and assistance."

With regard to the present situation, Chairman T. D. Watson of the board said Saturday night:

"I believe this whole matter should be laid squarely before the taxpayers of Glendale. They are the ones who are going to foot the bills and I believe they should be enabled to see the whole workings of this proposition. We have a very trying situation before us, but it is not the problem of this board any more than it is of every citizen of Glendale. Of course, we will have to stand our share of the expense, and so will they, and for this reason I believe they should be given a chance to say what they want us to do in this matter. Personally I do not care to shoulder the responsibility of selling the present site or anything of the kind, but rather, I believe the people should be given a free voice in the matter. Let them come to this mass meeting and tell us what they want and instruct us what to do. After this is done we will be very glad to carry out their wishes."

"Those are my sentiments, also," said Trustee Dan Campbell. "It is up to the people to decide what they want. We have been placed here to carry out the wishes of the people and I believe it would be folly for us to do anything without their O. K."

The remainder of those present put their stamp of approval on these expressions, and so the matter rested.

The July 14 mass meeting will be held at the high school auditorium.

New Consecration of Spirit Needed Says Philosopher

"We need a new consecration of spirit," declares James W. Foley in The Listening Post this evening, as he speaks in his characteristic philosophical way about the liberty and freedom which was earned for us by men with lofty ideals. In conclusion he says that we must "offer all we have even to life itself that freedom may endure."

Scientists have thus far won nothing but failure in their attempt to reach the summit of Mt. Everest and Henry James, in his comment on the day's news, declares that the unswerving will of man aided by his trusty staff, will have achieved the top before science can make it possible. It is interesting comment on a subject, which is occupying the attention of everyone in the country.

There are also on the editorial page, several forceful editorials, having for their themes, questions of vital moment, not only to the nation, but to the world. One of the most forceful being on the disloyalty displayed during a recent riot. Completing one of the most educational editorial pages in the southwest are stimulating articles by Dr. Frank Crane, Della Stewart and John Pilgrim, as well as some paragraphs dealing with Dr. Jordan's defense of Darwin.

MERCHANTS' TEAM LOSES SECOND GAME

Score of Six to Four Represents Hot Fought Battle

The Glendale Merchants lost their second straight baseball game yesterday by a score of 6 to 4. There is one consolation in losing the game and that is 15 innings were necessary to defeat the locals. The Merchants were stacked against the Evening Herald Greens, one of the hardest playing teams in the county.

Loge, pitching for the Greens, fanned 22 men. Johnson pitched a good game for the Merchants. One of the big features of the game was the fielding and hitting of Flinders.

The losing of the game last Sunday to the Talbert Whiting team was apparently the turning point in the victorious career of the Merchants.

The box score for yesterday's game was as follows:

R. H. E.
Herald Greens . . . 6 7 2
Glendale Merchants . . . 4 6 2

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Tuesday fair, except cloudy or foggy near coast tonight and in morning. Continued warm in the interior. Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair tonight and Tuesday with moderate temperature. Cloudy or foggy in the morning.

"Those are my sentiments, also," said Trustee Dan Campbell. "It is up to the people to decide what they want. We have been placed here to carry out the wishes of the people and I believe it would be folly for us to do anything without their O. K."

The remainder of those present put their stamp of approval on these expressions, and so the matter rested.

The July 14 mass meeting will be held at the high school auditorium.

ITY HALL CLASS STUDIES BELIEF IN GOD

Keith Brooks Leads in Presbyterian Bible Study

Keith L. Brooks, teacher of the Presbyterian men's Bible class in the city hall, spoke in part, as follows:

Our subject this morning is, "Will God Be Ushered Out of His Universe?" Professor James H. C. of Bryn Mawr college, in his book, "Belief in God," declares that only 14 percent of the psychologists, 18 percent of the biologists, 10 percent of the sociologists, and 2 percent of the historians in American colleges believe in the existence of a personal God; and that 40 to 50 percent of the young men leaving college do not believe there is a God who hears and answers prayer. There are others who are assuring us that there are practically no atheists today, for all believe in God since we came to know that God is not separate from His universe. It is the modern attempt to explain the origin of the universe by evolution that counts for this change in position.

"The God revealed in the Bible is personal, supreme, being, possessing intelligence and will, the creator, Preserver and Governor of the universe. Those who have been carried away by evolutionary teaching are giving out what they call 'the imminence of God,' by which they mean that God is not distinct from the world but part of it. He is simply the force or energy which has developed the world through the natural processes of evolution. He is simply the law of the universe. God is just a sacred name for all existence. Professor Rauschenbusch of Rochester seminary, said 'The old conception of God as distinct from human life must give way to the religious belief that He is immanent in humanity.' Professor McEffert of Union seminary, says 'The divine is no more separate and aloof. It is within and organic with the human.' Professor Foster of Chicago seminary, says 'The spirit of God is identical with the spirit of man.' So we see that according to the modern teaching God and the world are just two names for the same thing. This Bible can have no room for the view of God and His plan of salvation. If God is all and all is God, I would like to know what the religious value of this conception is. There is no excuse for the church to exist if there is no personal God to whom men are accountable. If this view becomes widely accepted there will soon be no church. It will simply become a clubhouse. Man is a moral being, moral government is necessary. There must be a sense of accountability to a Supreme Being or there is nothing but disaster in view for religion. The result of this modern belief upon the prayer life is evident. If there is no personal God who hears and answers prayer, then prayer becomes simply a peaceful state of mind. This is not what the Bible teaches. George Muller of Bristol, England, undertook to demonstrate to an unbelieving world that God is a living, understanding Being and proves it by answering prayer. For sixty-five years he carried on his orphanage, in which there were 2200 children at the time of his death, and never once in all those years did he appeal to man for help, even forbidding his workers to allow a need to become known. They were all supplied in answer to prayer. Men of prayer who take the Bible promises for what they say may still challenge the word. The man who walks with God and finds Him a present help in time of need, who verifies His promises in actual experience, may still give a demonstration of the fact that God is and that He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him.

Let me bring before you some of the Bible teachings concerning God. He is, first of all, a personal Being (Jer. 10:1-16). He is clearly distinguished from things. He is separate from His creatures and always referred to with a personal pronoun. He hears, sees, knows, feels, will, acts and is a person.

Secondly, He is infinite. "Great is Our Lord and of great power. His understanding is infinite," saith the Psalmist. It is not to be wondered at that man is incapable of adequately conceiving Him.

He is an invisible being. "No man hath seen God at any time."

(John 1:18). In His eternal essence no man has seen Him. Manifestations of God have been seen but not God Himself. He is a Spirit Being (John 4:24), meaning that He is incorporeal, yet a personal being. He is revealed to man through Jesus Christ, His Son. Jesus said, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father" (John 14:19). "The Word was made flesh and dwelt among us, and we beheld His glory, the glory as of the only Begotten of the Father" (John 1:14). "God was manifest in the flesh" (1 Tim. 3:16). In Jesus dwelt all the fullness of the Godhead in bodily form (Col. 2:9).

God is personally interested in the affairs of men (Mt. 6:26-30), and God can be personally known. "This is eternal life, that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent" (John 17:3). This is His own message taken from His own Word. "Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty man glory in his might, let not the rich man glory in his riches; but let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me, that I am the Lord which exercise loving kindness, judgment and righteousness in the earth; for in these things I delight, saith the Lord" (Jer. 9:23-24). I call you back to the God of our mothers and fathers and to the God of the Bible. In Him alone there is hope. We can know Him through Jesus Christ, His Son.

LOS FELIZ BOULEVARD WIDENED TO 100 FEET AT NORTH GATE TO GRIFFITH PARK

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 3.—The congested traffic conditions on the Los Feliz boulevard between Griffith park and Tropic are soon to be relieved by the widening of the boulevard at this point. Dickinson & Gillespie, local subdividers, who recently platted a 140-acre tract, known as Boulevard Manor, are principally responsible for this improvement. Their new tract is located immediately across the boulevard from Griffith park, and sufficient acreage will be given by them and surrounding property owners to increase the width of the boulevard from 60 feet to 100 feet.

The popularity of Los Feliz boulevard as a novelty business district is advancing by leaps and bounds, and the Boulevard Manor locality has become a fashionable marketing district for the Hollywood housewives.

ONE OF THE LARGEST IN L. A. The Boulevard Manor tract constitutes one of the largest subdivision developments of Los Angeles, over 700 lots being placed upon the market at one time. Although the selling campaign is but in its infancy, over 500 lots have already been disposed of in a rapid-fire manner, which conclusively proves the continued popularity of the Los Angeles-Glendale territory.

Another location A new boulevard project in this same vicinity is another Dickinson & Gillespie dedication in the form of an 80-foot residential boulevard and traversing the entire width of the new Boulevard Manor tract. This new thoroughfare follows the contour of the adjoining ground, and in addition to providing a much needed lateral artery, it promises to become a scenic residential drive.

Electric car running time to town is now 18 minutes, and it is calculated that the new subway will reduce this time by almost one-half and will make that choice bit of territory between Los Angeles and Glendale closer than any similar residential section in the city.

Wednesday of this week witnessed the initial operations of a new $125,000 building development on Boulevard Manor, being conducted by Alva E. Harshman, a Los Angeles capitalist and builder. This project represents something unique in the way of subdivision development, inasmuch as there will be a gratifying departure from the old staid thumb-and-rule type of quantity production. Twenty by California, colonial and Spanish bungalows are to be erected in addition to a $25,000 brick store building. The first ten foundations were poured last Thursday and of that number eight have already been sold.

500 ATTEND FIRST METHODIST PICNIC

Procession of Automobiles Leaves City for Monte Vista Park

Nearly 500 members of the Sunday school of the First Methodist church were in attendance at the annual picnic held in Monte Vista park at Sunland, last Saturday afternoon.

A procession of automobiles loaded with Sunday school folks, young and old, started from the church at 1:30 p. m., reaching the park on schedule time, and without accident.

Games and contests for all good sports of various ages began at 3 o'clock. The fat men had a race, in which the pastor, Dr. C. M. Crist, the Sunday school superintendent, A. W. Tower, F. M. Edwards and H. A. Wilson, participated. This race was won by Mr. Edwards, who was given for his wonderful speed, a prize, consisting of a set of "solid silver" teaspoons.

Three games of the exciting "outdoor" sport of indoor baseball were indulged in by the following classes: The Brotherhood class, lost to the Young Business Men's class by a score of 10 to 6, played in three innings. The battery for the Brotherhood class was Wm. Burns, pitcher, and H. A. Wilson, catcher; and of the Y. B. M. C., Sam Warren, pitcher, and S. C. Wheeler, catcher.

The Senior boys then played the Baraca class, the Baracas winning with a score of 8 to 6. The score was a tie at the end of the third inning, but an additional inning proved that the Baracas were too much for the Seniors.

The final game was then played between the two sets of winners, the Baracas plying up the score against the Y. B. M. C. to the tune of 7 to 4.

One of the most sensational plays in the first game was when Dr. Crist, in trying to make first, failed to find the base readily, and made several revolutions on top of Dr. P. O. Lucas, who was lying across the base.

The Baracas received as a prize for winning, an indoor baseball bat, which was donated by Cornwell & Kelly, was given as second prize to the Y. B. M. C.

The boys' footrace was won by Donald Green, and the Junior boys' race by Charlie Marsh.

Marie Warren won the intermediate girls' race, and Pauline Marsh the Junior girls' race.

After the games, everybody joined in eating a bountiful supper—the part of the picnic that both the kiddies and older folks had been looking forward to.

The day's prizes were awarded by W. A. Goss.

Everybody went home at sunset time, declaring that this had been the best picnic ever!

COMPARES CHURCH TO GOVERNMENT

Episcopal Church and U.
S. Government Founded on Same Lines

PRINCIPLES SIMILAR

Rev. Waldo Parker Tells the Formation of the Two Bodies

The American government and the Episcopal church were founded on the same principles, according to Rev. Waldo D. Parker, who spoke on that subject at the Sunday service at the Episcopal church.

Relating the earlier history of the Episcopal church and the American government and how the two are covered along similar lines, Rev. Parker said:

"Today in many churches there are being given patriotic addresses because of the Fourth of July. Instead of dwelling exclusively upon the purely patriotic side, let us try to see what connection our church had with the founding of this republic and what effect the founding of the United States had upon the founding of the American Episcopal church."

"If we only get to heaven," said a dear old lady, "it will never be asked by what road we came." That is a beautiful thought and one that is quite often followed in choosing a church, but there is a great advantage in choosing a church from principle rather than preference; for besides promoting self-respect and contentment it enables one to give a manly and thoughtful reason for his choice. A little time spent upon the history of the close of the Revolution convinces one of the facts.

"The founding of the American Episcopal church and the founding of the American republic instead of 13 separate Episcopal churches and 13 separate republics went on side by side with practically the same men at the helm. Both institutions were the result of principle and of liberation."

"Thirty-six of the 56 signers of the Declaration of Independence were Episcopalians. Twenty-two, or two-thirds, of the signers of the Constitution were Episcopalians. The constitution of the Episcopal church preceded that of the Constitution of the United States and hence leading thoughts and ideas of the church were incorporated into the state."

"Jefferson, who is credited with drawing the main portion of the Declaration of Independence, was a baptized Episcopalian. His life of fluency upon the political life of the country is everywhere in Washington was not only a communicant, but also a vestryman and a lay reader. The famous phrase, 'Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute,' was by Pickney, who was also the author of the clause in the Federal Constitution which provides that no religion shall ever be required as a qualification for any office in the United States."

"Patrick Henry cried, 'Give me liberty or give me death,' and inspired the colonies from one end to the other. John Morton of Pennsylvania cast the deciding vote committing Pennsylvania to the Revolution. The eloquence of Richard Henry Lee of Virginia proposed the idea of a congress for the colonies and introduced the resolution calling for independence. His very words are embodied in the Declaration of Independence. Every school child has read the words of Lighthorse Harry Lee: Robert Morris gave his fortune to prevent the collapse of the Revolution."

"Benjamin Franklin, among other wonderful deeds to aid the cause, persuaded France to give us the aid which proved to be the turning point for success. Alexander Hamilton is called the wisest and greatest diplomat of those days. It is to him that we owe our financial stability."

"All of these and hundreds of others were Episcopalians. It was an Episcopalian who hung the lanterns in 'Old Christ's Episcopal church' of Boston that gave the signal to Paul Revere and hence started the American Revolution. We should also mention President Madison, President Moore, Chief Justice John Marshall, Francis Hopkinson, the father of the author of 'Hail Columbia,' and Francis Scott Key, the writer of 'The Star Spangled Banner.'"

"These and others like them were the men who founded the American Episcopal church and the American republic. Six of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were sons or grandsons of Episcopal clergymen."

"At times there are charges by denominationalists and Romanists that we are an English organization, that we are monarchial, and that we are not democratic. Those who make these charges do not know the history of our church, or of our country. We are in communion with the church of England, but our method of government is different. The founders' ideals of the American republic."

LARGE CROWD AT CHORAL CLUB CONCERT

Burbank Musicians and Carlo Concert Boys and Girls Please

A capacity audience was attracted to the grammar school last Friday night to hear the closing concert of the season by the Burbank Choral club.

With both the members of the Choral club and also the Carlo Concert company taking part, the program was very pleasing.

One of the entertaining numbers was "When Mabel Sings," by Miss Gladys Shelton, noted soloist of the First Christian church.

Several fine numbers were given, including "The Launch of Peace," "Love's Old Sweet Song," "The Old Road," "Where the Lazy Mississippi Flows" and "Oh, Italia, Italia."

The numbers of the Choral club was up to its usual good standard. The members of the Carlo Concert company also pleased. The company is comprised of four little children who have been declared by those who know as being wonders. There are two boys eight years old and two girls, one nine and the other ten years old. The eldest little girl has a wonderful soprano voice which has caused considerable comment by members of the American Musical Optimists' association, which is composed of great musicians and composers.

"They are under the direction and leadership of Miss Sadie Liberman of Los Angeles. She also accompanies them."

Burbank Personals

Mrs. E. E. Hillyard and daughter, Mrs. Luther Davis, both of Memphis, the guests of Mrs. D. V. May Hardy of Burbank, have been visiting Mrs. Wadlington at her home in Long Beach. Accompanied by Mrs. Wadlington, they plan to visit Tijuana, San Diego, and other Southern California cities.

Mrs. Florence Gratrix expects to attend the summer session of a kindergarten school in Los Angeles, which will open this week.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Corey of 714 Walnut street entertained over the week-end Mr. Charles Macdeth, Mr. Andrew Macdeth and Miss Josephine Macdeth.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Riley, and daughter Frances of 241 Grinnell avenue left today for Santa Monica, where they will visit friends. They will return to their home Tuesday evening.

of this country proposed to found a republic and the founders of the American Episcopal church did the same. Can you not see the similarity between the two? Each state is supreme when not in conflict with the federal government. The federal government must respect state rights. Each diocese is supreme when not in conflict with the general convention must respect the rights of each diocese. The house of bishops is like the senate and the house of deputies is like the house of representatives. Our presiding council is similar to the president and his cabinet, although with less authority. We also have our judicial branches. We have our diocesan conventions which resemble our state legislatures. The laity and clergy have representation. The standing committee of the diocese composed of laymen and clergy are not under the authority of the bishop, who has certain prerogatives of his own.

"In fact, the similarity between our church government and that of our country is so marked that one must have been copied from the other. History shows that the constitution of the church antedates that of the country. Are we then not true Americans?"

"In fact, we lay claim to being the only church that is truly American in form, i. e., truly comparable to American ideals of government. Our policy is a representative one as opposed to individualism. That was the idea of the founders of our government. They set out to found a republic, i. e., a representative form of government, not a democracy, i. e., an individualistic form. During the past 20 years with referendum, recall, direct elections, judicial appeals, etc., we have gone away from the ideals of Washington. Jefferson, Franklin and the patriots and have gone back centuries to forms of government which failed then and will fail again."

"Henry Clay, who was baptized a member of the Episcopal church late in life, is reported to have said that the stability of our government depended upon the perpetuation of two institutions, the Episcopal church and the supreme court of the United States. Such a statement can be accounted for only by admitting the truth of the claim that the Episcopal church has the best system of religious education that is adapted to produce that type of character of which the country needs most, especially in these trying days."

"Whenever we plead for faithful observance of church duties, we are not only pleading for the future of the Kingdom of God, but we are pleading as true American patriots for the sanctity of the founders' ideals of the American republic."

Youths Who Apply for Lodging

Telling a weird tale of being chased by a rancher with a gun and of their being balked in an attempt to reach the Los Angeles municipal farm for prisoners because of the "river," two young men were dismissed with a warning by Judge Crawford in court Saturday.

Confessing their alleged inability to reach the city farm in Griffith park, where both are prisoners, the youths, who gave the names of A. C. Whidding and Frank Smith, applied for lodging Friday night at the city jail.

According to their story they secured permission from Roy Morgan, keeper of the city farm, to come to Burbank early Tuesday night for the purpose of getting their shoes repaired.

After leaving the city farm they "cut across" a ranch in order to reach Burbank quicker. While crossing the farm the owner threatened to shoot them if he caught them on his place again, the boys asserted.

Not knowing the road on which to return to the city farm because they are strangers, the pair say they attempted to return the way they came after visiting Burbank. But just as they started across the farm they saw the rancher on guard with a rifle, causing them to seek another route as they "did not want to get plugged."

Not finding any bridge across the river because they were off the highways, the boys assert they were unable to cross the river, and not knowing what else to do, returned to Burbank to seek lodgings at the city jail for the night, which was granted.

The river that they claimed they were unable to cross is the Los Angeles river, which is nearly dry.

"DIDN'T SPEND 'EM ALL
The curate was admonishing the village sport. "You ought not to spend all your wages, George," George indignantly retorted that he did not. "No?" queried the curate suspiciously. "No, sir," said George. "I make it a rule never to spend more'n two-thirds of my wages on no account whatever."

"Well, well," said the curate pleasantly, "you put the rest in the bank, I suppose?" "No," said George. "I put it to a better use 'n that, sir. I give it to the wife to keep house on."

"It says here that surgeons have discovered that orange blossoms may be used as an anaesthetic," said Mrs. Henpeck.

"I always did believe that I was unconscious when we were married," remarked Mr. Henpeck.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Daily of San Diego were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Holloman of 109 North Olive street.

SUCCESS OF LOCAL SONGBIRD IS REWARDED

Miss Eleanor Jordan Re-engaged by Owls of Burbank

Highly pleased with the excellent singing of Miss Eleanor Jordan, Burbank's own songbird, the Burbank Owls have engaged her to sing at more of their meetings.

Miss Jordan captivated the large crowd that attended the meeting of the Owls last Wednesday night at which time a class of 4 was initiated.

The Owls also plan to have her sing at other of their organizations.

Miss Jordan resides with her mother on a nearby ranch, claiming Burbank as her present home. During her enviable career as a professional singer she gained the name of "Nightingale."

She is nearly completely recovered from the serious illness which forced her to quit the stage temporarily.

MRS. BLANCHARD HONORS MRS. SOY

Mrs. W. A. Blanchard entertained recently with a tastefully appointed luncheon in honor of Mrs. Jane Soy, who is going to leave for the east very soon on an extended visit. The rooms were beautifully decorated with yellow and white margarites and the table decorations were also in yellow and white. Dainty hand-painted place cards with margarites on them marked places for the honor guest, Mrs. Jane Soy, Mrs. Bussington, Mrs. J. D. Radcliff, Mrs. D. Forsythe, Mrs. Stone, Mrs. E. Watson, Mrs. C. M. Knox and the hostess, Mrs. Blanchard.

CORSET BRACE PENETRATED HEART

GENEVA, June 23.—A young woman from Zurich, while skiing in the Alps, met death in a peculiar way. She fell 12 feet over a ledge into deep snow. She was found unconscious and died soon afterward. It was found that a whalebone from her corset, broken by the fall, had pierced her heart.

COUPLE SUSPECTS IN BANK CASE RELEASED

No Convicting Evidence Is Secured Against
Two Youths

Ed Davis and William Farnum, two youths incriminated in the recent attempted bank robbery of the State Bank of Burbank, have been released from custody.

The two had been held on vagrant charges and were each sentenced to 30 days in the city jail by Judge Crawford, but the sentence was suspended during their good behavior.

The boys, who gave their home as San Bernardino, promised to go to work or get out of town.

Although they were never able to give satisfactory explanations why they were in the city, no convicting evidence relative to the attempted bank robbery could be secured against them.

Miss Alice Lehman of 33 Angelina avenue leaves today for Catalina, where she will spend a week with friends.

THREE KINDS OF SINS YET DESTRUCTIVE

Sins of Publicans, Pharisees and Sadducees
About Same as Today

AN EVIL GENERATION

Rev. Hays Compares Modern Sinners With Those of Early Days

The three kinds of sin in Israel in the days of Christ are the leading varieties of sin today, asserted Rev. Herbert E. Hays in his sermon Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church of Burbank.

"I hope the world is growing better and believe it is, but it has not yet outgrown sin," declared Rev. Hays.

Taking for his subject, "Three Kinds of Sin," based on "This generation is an evil generation," Luke 11:29, Rev. Hays in his sermon said:

"Christ here says that the people generally of His time were sinners. He met many kinds of people, of varying stations in life, but they had all done evil. Paul agrees with the Master in this, 'All have sinned and come short of the glory of God.'"

"Likewise, this generation is sinful. I hope the world is growing better and believe it is, but it has not yet outgrown sin. Sin is still a common fact in both experience and observation."

It helps us to realize this more clearly to remember that there is great variety in sin. One person is afflicted with one kind and another with another kind, according to disposition, education and environment."

"There were three chief varieties of sin in Israel in the days of Christ and, since they are the leading varieties of sin in America in our time, we may well study them."

"First, the sin of the publican. 'Low down' sin we call it, sexual perversion, with all its blight upon body, mind and soul; then drunkenness, poisoning the physical being, upsetting the mental equilibrium, and degrading the moral and spiritual nature; also gluttony, living to eat instead of eating to live; the life of the flesh in every particular, but destructive even to the flesh, this is the sin of the publican. 'The personal wreckage from this kind of sin is awful, filling our jails, poor houses, and potter's fields. Its effect upon home life is tragic, breaking the marriage tie and cursing children before they are born and ever after. From the national point of view, it brings deterioration and disaster. Christianity opposes all this and injects purity into individual, home, and civic life. What the nation needs to save it from this moral corruption is a truer kind of Christianity and more of it."

"Second, the sin of the Pharisee. There is more than one kind of sin. Low down sinners are not all. Jesus was evidently harder on the Pharisees than on any other class of people. Theirs was the sin of pride, pride of knowledge, pride of family, pride of position in regard to religion, and all in a very exclusive way. Theirs was the 'holier than thou' attitude, when in reality they were far from holy. Theirs was the religion of the letter as against the religion of the spirit. Meanwhile the godly life within them prospered as it does today where there is no better religion. Church men run corporations which are doing the devil's work and excuse themselves on the ground that it is the corporation that is acting. The owner of a cotton mill said he had not sinned for 20 years when all the time he had been driving little children for long hours on a pittance of pay and compelling all his help to work under very unsanitary conditions. Jesus would have us broaden our conception of what sin is."

"Next, the sin of the Sadducees. They were cold, and worldly, and unbelieving. They maintained any relation at all to religion only where it would pay them in some financial or political way. They had little real use for God. They were materialistic and selfish. They are fairly represented in modern life by those who profiteered during the world war while truer men were giving their life's blood or at least their time and strength for the cause. The capitalist who takes undue advantage of labor because it is weak or unorganized, and the labor union which takes advantage just because it is strong, without reference to the right, also make good Sadducees. Christ directed many thunderbolts against this type of sin and has left us plenty of ammunition against modern Sadducees."

"Too many of us are content with condemning the other fellow for his sins instead of getting rid of our own. 'Cast first the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast the mote out of thy brother's eye.'"

Miss Clair Glenn, manager of the Burbank Pharmacy No. 1, left Sunday for a two weeks' vacation to Yosemite valley. Two Glendale friends will accompany her.

BURBANK BUSINESS SUSPENDED ON JULY 4

City Hall and Most Other Places to Be Closed
During Day

City hall, banks, offices, stores and all places of business will be closed in Burbank all day tomorrow in observance of the Fourth of July.

The city hall will be closed and the city trustees will hold the regular weekly meeting Wednesday night instead of the usual time, Tuesday night, according to City Clerk Webster.

The office of the secretary of the chamber of commerce and all stores that are members of the chamber of commerce will be closed for the day, Secretary Colburn said.

No edition will be issued Tuesday of the Burbank Daily Press. The library will be closed.

In fact, about the only folks who will be on duty here on Independence Day will be the members of the police and fire department.

Many Burbankers are planning to spend the day at the grand Fourth of July celebration at the San Fernando mission. Many Spanish dancers and singers are booked on the entertainment program. The money derived from the celebration will apply to the restoration fund that is being raised in behalf of the mission.

Other local folks will spend the day at the beaches, or camping in the mountains. Many of the campers took advantage of the nearness of the holiday to Sunday and are spending several days away from their homes.

GIRL SCOUTS HOLD PICNIC FRIDAY AT PARK

All But Two Local Girl
Scouts Attend All-
Day Event

All but two of the Girl Scouts of Burbank attended the all-day picnic held Friday at Brookside park, according to Marguerite Hilton, secretary.

The day was spent in bathing and in games at the park. Lunch was served. The trip to and from the grounds was made in autos.

Owing to Tuesday being a holiday, the regular weekly meeting of the Girl Scouts, which is scheduled for Tuesday night, will be held Wednesday night. The girls meet at the kindergarten room of the grammar school, starting at 7 o'clock.

Those who attended the picnic of the Mountain Laurel patrol were:

Margaret Wood, Marjorie Hayes, Carol Robins, Virginia Vance, Louise Wellington and Eleanor Simon.

The Pine Cone patrol was represented 100 per cent. They were: Madeline Gage, Jacqueline McDonald, Jeanette Gage, Katherine Hough, Marguerite Hilton, Ida Tatelliff and Frances Tupper.

TOUCHING FAITH
The little boy in the woods took out of his pocket a small bottle and sprinkled a few drops of it in front of the hole into which he had just chased a cottontail.

"Why do you do this incantation?" asked the gentleman who was out rabbit hunting with the lad.

"I wanted to go out and cut a stick to twist the littleascal out, and I was afraid he might get away while I was gone. So I just sprinkled a little of this tonic there to keep the hare from coming out."

"Mother!"
"Yes, Ethel."
"Will you do something for me?"
"What is it?"
"I wish you would buy me a rolling pin."

"Why don't you buy one yourself?"
"Oh, you know Jim and I have only been married a few weeks and the man at the store might think we were not getting along together."

Mrs. E. E. Hillyard and daughter, Mrs. Luther Davis of Memphis, together with Mrs. Chibens of Burbank, recently visited Brookside park and also attended the mission play. Mrs. Hillyard and Mrs. Davis are the guests of Mrs. I. V. May Hardy of this city.

When the Flag Goes By!

Independence Day—the Fourth of July—when the heart of every American citizen is thrilled with the memories of the days of 1776!

A hundred and fifty years ago a struggling band of Colonists fighting the battle of Freedom against tremendous odds! At the head of that sometimes ragged and tattered army the figure of the immortal Washington—father of his country—majestic, unfaltering, unafraid!

Today a nation of a hundred and ten millions of people in a sisterhood of fifty states! Over it all floats the flag consecrated by the Fathers to Liberty, Justice and Freedom. Under its protecting folds marches the mighty army of men and women and children of the Republic—that Republic that has cherished and defended the ideals of a Free People, for the hope of the struggling masses of the world!

The Flag Goes By! With bowed and reverent heads we shall stand, paying our tribute of pride and gladness to the Signers of the Declaration of Independence, the Authors of the Nation's Liberty, the Battlers for Freedom! Souls rededicated to country, hearts thrilled with the history of heroism, men, women and children united for the Glory of America—a Nation reborn!

Our places of business will be closed on Independence Day, July 4.

Truths in Epigram

I tell thee Love is Nature's second

spring of virtues
where he shines.
— Chapman
(1557-1634).
God helps those who help themselves. — Sidney (1622-1683).

FOREST FIRES

Every season there are appeals for aid in prevention of forest fires. Every season such fires cause thousands of dollars of damage. In many instances the damage is far greater than apparent. The loss is not merely in destruction of timber, but in the stripping of watersheds. Areas that are useful in retention of moisture are denuded of all growth. The rains of the following season find no lodgment in them. The water rushes down from the bare heights in a flood, causing more damage as it goes. As the streams inundate lower levels, they carry with them the soil capable of sustaining plant life. The watershed becomes permanently sterile, no more capable of producing tree or underbrush. So the fire, as the worst part of its mission, creates the wilderness.

Most fires are due to carelessness. Here and there one is started by spontaneous combustion, by accidental concentration of the sun's rays, from a spark flying from the contact of rocks dislodged, or in some regions, lightning is a frequent explanation. But here, it is safe to affirm, nineteen out of twenty may be ascribed to carelessness. The smoker on the trail tosses aside his match or the stump of his cigar. He knocks the sparks from his pipe against any convenient stump. He leaves his smoldering camp fire to be tossed about by the winds.

There are laws supposed to govern the conduct of men and women in relation to these things, but they are difficult of enforcement, and guilt often is hard to determine. The laws are strongest not because of the penalty they name, but as appeals to common sense and the spirit of fairness. Nobody who enjoys an outing in the woods really desires to destroy the growth that shelters his pathway to the camp. Negligence is more than a crime, for it expresses an intrinsic meanness and selfishness of which any individual ought to be ashamed.

WHOLESALE DISLOYALTY

Williamson county, Illinois, seems to be disloyal in defying the laws that define murder as a crime; in showing sympathy for the assassins, it assails the spirit of the constitution. The community is a disgrace to a great state. It is a reproach to the whole country. It tends to bring government into contempt. Its attitude gives the world a wrong impression as to American ideas of order. Doubtless as the news of Williamson county goes forth to the world it incites sneers at western civilization.

Loyalty is an important characteristic of good citizenship, so important, indeed, that without it good citizenship is impossible. In war time disloyalty was reckoned a dangerous type of offense, and was severely punished. The United States was at war, not from love of strife, but in promotion of peace. Now that the war is over, the mission of promoting peace remains as vital as ever. Disloyalty, therefore, even if less spectacular than when taking the form of aiding and abetting an avowed enemy, remains as dangerous and as obnoxious as ever. The general desire is to cast the influence of this great republic on the side of righteousness and justice. To be effective it must maintain an integrity above all suspicion. It cannot afford to permit units of discord and violence to hold sway in any part of the domain. If it cannot restrain turbulence within itself, it is disarmed and useless as a moral equation in world affairs.

Lawlessness as displayed in Williamson county is an affront to the nation. That the outbreak is to be permitted to pass as a mere incident of purely local interest, is unthinkable. It cannot be that in the presence of a murderous outlaw band, the hand of authority is to be stricken powerless.

BRINGING PEOPLE TOGETHER

The fine highways of southern California have had an effect most difficult to estimate. It is certain that they have been an important factor in development of this end of the state. The mere fact that such roads exist is a wonderful revelation of the enterprise that is behind the progress of this section. The visitor, winding along hundreds of miles of almost perfect road is astonished not only at that which is revealed to him in scenic beauty and fertility, but at the means by which he has been able to reach it. A charm of these roads is that whether they approach the crests or skirt the valley below, they are available throughout the year. Only a few stretches actually high in the mountains are closed by winter snows. With the exception of these, the roads never are touched by snow.

A journey of a hundred miles in California is a far simpler matter than a journey of ten miles would be in the middle west where there has not been an awakening to the necessity for good roads. For a family picnic to be held fifty miles from home, the return being before dark, is a simple incident of Californian experience.

Not only have the roads made distance nothing to be dreaded, but they have done much to solve the problem of freight transportation. Goods of all kinds are carried between many points with less delay than when railroads are utilized, and often when there are no rail lines upon which to depend. This traffic has made clear the necessity for construction of heavier highways to be devoted to such hauling.

Southern California realizes what the highways have done. It intends to build more. The growth of the transportation system is a sign of the advance of prosperity, population, and the solid wealth that comes from increased production.

Many people buy books and having read them, permit them to cumber the shelves collecting dust. A book may be worth buying, worth reading, and then not worth keeping. It would be well for persons having a lot of idle volumes in the house to remember that there are invalid soldiers in the hospitals who would be glad to get them. A book must be very bad indeed really to be superfluous. When it has performed its mission with the owner, the proper course of the owner is to pass it along, and then it never will be a superfluity.

Pasadena plans the expenditure of $137,000 for improvement of its lighting and power department. It will improve the water system by spending $200,000. Almost all of this will come out of the cash balance and earnings of the departments. One would judge from this that Pasadena had a pretty solid investment in its own utilities, and the benefit of good management.

The Passion for Standing Still

By DR. FRANK CRANE

One of the commonest mistakes that young people make, especially when they are addicted to thinking, is that the world is passionate for progress and reform.

We are as fond of our antique old ideas as we are of our antique furniture and as proud.

And it is a question whether woman, that most influential half of the race, is not even more passionately reactionary than man.

Some time ago there was held in England what was called a Deliverance From Drudgery Exhibition, where labor-saving devices for use in the home were shown.

Out of sixty machines exhibited for saving labor in the home not one had been invented by a woman.

Mr. Charles A. Farmer, secretary of the association which held the exhibition, commented upon this as follows:

"Theoretically the woman ought to be the inventor, but in practice the inventions and suggestions that we get are all from men.

"I know of only one household invention by a woman. Even the most honorable suggestions come from men, thus showing that the man is always eager to make life easier for his wife.

"We get determined opposition from the ranks of domestic servants. More often than not they will have nothing to do with modern contraptions.

"One cook the other day refused point-blank to be provided with a set of transparent and unbreakable glass pots.

"The maid prefer Housemaid's Knee to using a wooden handle to which a brush, duster or dustpan can be attached. Cooks refuse to use simple little gadgets for lifting hot plates out of ovens; they prefer to burn their fingers or soil an apron."

Perhaps woman owes her reactionary tendency to the long period of bondage in which she has been held from the most ancient times until now.

It has been impressed upon her for centuries that her safety depends upon her conservatism and adherence to convention, and that any sort of individuality or originality is dangerous.

Almost all institutions that have had to do with women are based upon the idea that she must be sheltered.

This means that her safety lies in the strength of her armor and not in the strength of her arms.

The natural result of this kind of teaching is to develop a certain excellence, but it is the excellence of slaves.

Women these days are coming out into the open. They are making their own living. They are entering all trades and professions. They are learning to take responsibility for their own careers.

They are getting another ideal than the ancient one, that the height of any woman's ambition is to be "kept" one way or another.

When woman shall have become fully emancipated and self-reliant we may look for her to become even more beautiful and more fit to be the mother of men.

Even virtue is a word whose etymology suggests power and strength and not cloistered protection. (Copyrighted by Dr. Frank Crane)

QUERIES

(Find the error in this article.)

Marilynn F.: "Kindly advise through your column which sentence is correct: three cupful of flour; or, three cupfuls of flour." Answer: "Three cupfuls of flour."

Miss V. C. Inquires: "The 'Right Word' is most interesting and also very helpful. May I express myself in the discussion of 'bad' and 'badly'?"

Miss V. C. Inquires: "I feel badly" is equivalent to "I feel wicked" or "I feel incorrigible." "I feel badly" is equivalent to "My sense of touch is faulty." Would it not be better English to say "I feel ill?" Answer: Your statement that "I feel badly" is equivalent to "My sense of touch is faulty" is accurate. "I feel ill" is good English, of course, but "I feel bad" and "I feel ill" are synonymous expressions. The definition of "bad" in the unabridged dictionaries is, in part, "ill; sick"; as, I feel bad. If there are any persons that care to read the opinions of a number of educators on this subject, "The Right Word" will be glad to devote one or two days to the publication of these opinions, which will supplement what has already been written on the question in textbooks and dictionaries.

Norbert E. Rolher: "In order to settle a disagreement will you be kind enough to tell me which of the following clauses is incorrect and why: 'It couldn't be done by any means'; 'It couldn't be done by no means'?" Answer: "It couldn't be done by any means. Never use a double negative unless you are emphasizing an affirmative idea; as, he did not tell him not to do it."

Vocabulary. "If the assassination could trammeled up the consequences." — Shakespeare.

Trammel: "To embarrass with hindrances or limitations; hamper; entangle; impede." — Standard.

Pronunciation: tram'el (as in at; e as in get). — Standard, Century, Webster, and Oxford.

For observations: trammeled (noun); trammeled (participial adjective); trammeled (noun).

Origin: tramall (old French).

THE LISTENING POST

The blessings of free government and free peoples were earned for us.

By grave men with high ideals. Who offered everything even to life itself that they and their descendants and the people who came after them might be free.

Freedom of opinion and action and speech were earned.

For centuries men suffered under oppressors.

Those who by force maintained themselves in power and rule.

And governed with the sword.

Then through centuries of time men fought themselves out of bondage.

From under the yoke of hereditary monarchs.

And finally declared that people should govern themselves.

In such a republic as ours.

It was not easily accomplished. Despotism did not readily yield.

They surrendered only to force. To force exercised on behalf of the right.

And today we enjoy the fruits of that long and unending struggle for liberty.

It is well to remember at this time that liberty came to those who deserved it.

By fighting for it.

And that it will continue only to those people who continue to deserve it.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Drawn—By John Ford (1586-1639)

Fly hence, shadows, that do keep
Watchful sorrows charm'd in sleep!
Thou' the eyes be overtaken,
Yet the heart doth ever waken
Thoughts chain'd up in busy snares

Of continual woes and cares:
Love, and griefs are so express
As they rather sigh than rest.
Fly hence, shadows, than do keep
Watchful sorrows charm'd in sleep!

Dr. David Starr Jordan of Stanford Defends Darwin

David Starr Jordan discussing evolution before the American Society for the Advancement of Science in Salt Lake City last Saturday denied that in any matter of vital importance scientific opinion has altered the evolutionary theory. In praising Darwin's realization that the facts of nature have a material cause within the range of exploration, he declared that no guesses, however plausible, serve the purpose of truth and that philosophical speculation may be a worse enemy to science than crass ignorance.

By the current term "organic evolution" we mean the vast extension of geologic time, bound together by bonds of unity, which show that the life of the present is descended from the life of the past, controlled by the continuous action of existing causes," Dr. Jordan said.

"Life changes with time. In the formation of any species two innate factors are always present, variation and heredity. By the former new combinations are constantly brought about. By the latter, each individual is in large degree like its ancestry. Like produces not exactly but nearly like, and the creatures of the future spring from the survivors of today.

"On the outside two factors, at least, are present, molding the life of every individual and of every species. These Darwin brought together as 'natural selection,' natural selection, as distinguished from the imagined 'supernatural,' special creation; but the term as Darwin left it will fear further analysis. One element recognized by Darwin, that is, the inheritance of acquired characters, is still hypothetical and largely discredited, but no one who studies living things in nature can doubt the reality of the great sifting process by which those survive who can, leaving progeny having their general traits and their qualities of adaptability. Adaptation has its rise in selection while fundamental resemblance in structure and development indicates blood relationship.

"A second effect of environment has been often overlooked, but is especially potent in molding forms of life, this is isolation or separation which prevents a wide range in breeding through the interposition of barriers.

The formation of words in a language is closely akin to the assembling of a fauna or flora. Every animal or plant or worm flourishes in every part of the world unless (1) it has never been able to get there, or (2) getting there, it has failed to maintain itself, or (3) maintaining itself it has undergone changes into something else.

"No one having a right to any opinion at all questions the essential facts of descent and divergence, however much they may differ as to unsettled details. There is no contrary hypothesis in biology any more than in astronomy. Darwin's position was that of an explorer mapping an area from a lofty height. Others have furnished multitudes of detail, yet in no matter of vital importance has scientific opinion much altered his sketch map. But even more potent than his conclusions was his method, the realization that each phenomenon has its material cause within the range of exploration and that no guesses, however plausible, serve the purpose of truth. Whatever is true is the truest thing in the world and whatever it is we shall never know until we find out."

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

LIQUIDATING A HOPE

[New York Tribune]

The formal resignation of Boris Bakhmeteff as Russian ambassador to the United States is a melancholy attestation of the liquidation of a great hope.

Who will forget those days early in March, 1917, when the wires from Petrograd suddenly became dumb and then sprang into joyous life with the great news that the czar had abdicated and that a temporary government had been set up, captained by Russian liberals and pledged to establish a free democratic government in Russia? German agents were among the czar's ministers and a treacherous desertion was feared. It looked as if the danger had been averted. Then came Bakhmeteff to this country.

But, alas! While the bells still rang, Germany, defeated on one front, was busy on another. She found Lenin and his group in Switzerland; she stuffed their baggage with gold, put them on a special train and brought them to Petrograd to play the German game. To the Russian feast thus came the devil also. Burrowing, playing on cowardices, inflaming all the malcontents and using the German spy army, the great betrayal was achieved. Since, step by step Russia has been pushed further into ruin.

Sublime was the hope. Cruelly it has been destroyed. We like to assume that good causes always win. The departure of Boris Bakhmeteff shows that they may fail if not properly supported.

Herbert Corey, inquiring soul, wants to know where the dignity of good old congressional days has gone. Along with this quest goes one for the snows of yesteryear.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Scientists have failed in the attempt to scale Mt. Everest. They made a valiant effort, reaching a point 1700 feet from the top. This is the greatest altitude ever attained by men whose feet still rested on terra firma. Aviators, equipped with supplies of oxygen, have gone higher.

Commenting on the abandoned expedition one writer says that the crest of Everest is destined never to be trodden by man. This is a jump to a conclusion. Far more likely that the virgin span intervening between this defeat and victory will be conquered yet.

Mount Everest has kept its secrets well, but it is a mundane institution, and soon or late is bound to stand revealed to mortal senses. It is not, in the manner of the moon, so situated that its higher side must remain forever hidden.

Another writer, probably nearer the truth, predicts that a ship will fly to the summit of Everest, carrying passengers in a glass compartment whence they may look out and study the whole region, being safe and comfortable the while.

If this is to occur, it must be far in the future. Before the helicopter shall have attained the necessary degree of efficiency, and the glass compartment has been constructed, the tireless energy of the man with the alpenstock may have achieved the triumph thus far denied.

A Los Angeles couple are about to observe the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding. Such occasions, while far from unprecedented, are rare. They are much more notable than many unions and disunions over which considerable fuss is made.

When a man and woman marry and separate in a spectacular quarrel, the matter is regarded as news, and perhaps it is. But it is trivial news, important to the individuals, and to them only for a short time.

It is when people live together in complete union of thought and purpose for years and years, that they have done something worth while. Nobody appears to get excited over it, however. It lacks the "kick" for which all seem to be looking.

Authorities at Zion City arrested a youth for whistling on the public street. Probably this must be regarded as a blow to constitutional liberty. All they do to constitutional liberty in that place is to knock it anyhow.

Still, it is possible that the youth was whistling a jazz tune, or was off the key, or was making a sibilant bluff, really not knowing how to whistle. If these conditions, or any of them existed, the fact may be cited in mitigation of the offense of the supposedly foot-copper.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Most of us married men are in the same boat. We only get our way by strategy. That is why the interested observer may, upon occasion, see J. Pilgrim, Esq., on his way to market in the early morning, a basket on his arm and the light of reckless daring in his eye. He proposes to buy a lot of stuff that his wife refuses to buy, and that she does not care for, and that perfectly suits his own individual digestion. There will be a called meeting of the domestic choral society when that basket gets home, but no matter. He will have had his way.

"Marketing, hey?" said John Oliver, our neighbor, when he saw us escorting the basket. Oliver often makes bright remarks like that. "Come along. I'm marketing, too."

So Pilgrim and Oliver, the rebels, marched into the market house. And there Oliver elevated himself to a high place in Pilgrim's respect. He walked around to the stand where all sorts of inviting cold meats are sold and bought him a dime's worth of chopped beef and put it in his pocket, and as he walked about the market he withdrew a silver of beef from time to time and ate it.

"Hungry?" asked Pilgrim, sarcastically. "No breakfast yet? Or not enough?"

Oliver said that he had eaten breakfast and went into a lot of gruesome revelations about that meal which need not now be repeated. Then he explained that when he went to market he was always being tempted by the things he saw for sale. The mere sight of the delicacies sent him into a spasm of extravagance. "A disembowelled broiler, cold and naked, a dark red slab of calf's liver, the bright and ant black and green berries, the delicate tints of the lettuce and spinach and asparagus and onions, the fragrance of the cold meats, the good-natured enthusiasm of the countenance, rosy, well-fed marketers roused in him a passion of purchase. He was often unable to restrain himself, he said, but bought wildly and returned home with enough food to serve a hotel.

"So now I buy a little chopped beef and nibble at it as I go my rounds," he said. "It soothes the appetite which has been aroused by these enticing spectacles. I am able to restrain myself. Instead of buying a few brace of guinea fowl I take a bit of chopped beef."

Looks to me as though Oliver has discovered something. Perhaps all of us need a bypass for the avoidance of folly.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA E. STEWART

A Pennsylvania politician received a great surprise recently along with a bill for $23, that being the surgical cost of removing one of his campaign buttons from the stomach of a six-year-old admirer. Whether or not the incident so touched his sense of the humorous that he permitted the money thus spent because of his political campaign to the thrifty parents who sent in the bill no one knows.

But probably not. If he did, would it not be establishing a dangerous precedent? Buttons are by no means the only things swallowed by credulous people during a political campaign. There are others less tangible, but none the less harm-producing. Besides them a mere button is scarcely worth mentioning. What is a little disturbance of the digestive tract, confined to one aloof, to the broad-casting of fallacies and half-truths that so often abound? What about the candidate's promises and formulated policies, which so many swallow as gospel truth, only to find them as bitter wormwood in post-election months?

It would be most interesting to know whether Mr. Alter of Pennsylvania acceded to the demand for damages. The sum in question is a very small one, of course, but as a starter it might work a revolution in political methods. If false ideas which so easily enter the human system and cause ferment and unwholesome conditions were made cause for damage actions directed toward the ones that brought them into activity, a quick curb might be exercised on political oratory.

Maybe this is something that we women can take up and develop.

The officers elected at this meeting are: President, Alex. Elsemann, of the Freed-Elsemann radio corporation; first vice-president, Charles Foster, of the De Forest radio telephone and telegraph company; second vice-president, William D. Miller, of the Dubilier condenser company; secretary, Frank Hinners, of the Home radio corporation, and treasurer, Joseph D. R. Freed, of the Freed-Elsemann radio corporation.

The purpose of the National radio chamber of commerce is to study certain conditions which have arisen in the radio industry as a result of its tremendous growth within the last few months, and to group together manufacturers whose radio products are of such dependable character as to maintain favorable public opinion toward the radio industry.

It is stated that all radio manufacturers, whether large or small, will be eligible for membership. The original group consisted of about 15 manufacturers. To this body there will be added, by invitation, about 20 additional concerns whose business standing and whose products are known to be of high order. New concerns will be eligible after their apparatus has been passed upon by a board of five members. This board will be appointed at the next meeting after new members, whose products have already been passed upon, are added to the membership list.

It is planned to exclude from the membership various concerns which have been organized purely for stock-jobbing purposes, and to exclude also manufacturers who are now turning out radio apparatus which has been found to be inferior and which will eventually bring radio into disfavor in the part of purchasers of such dependable apparatus.

It is also stated that a large number of persons have entered into the business who are placing in the market carelessly constructed merchandise, which, after a few months' use, will be worthless in the hands of the consumers. Many of these new concerns are innocently infringing upon existing patents. This infringement is due to the fact that the financiers back of these concerns have taken for granted the advice of some so-called expert, and therefore, through ignorance or unscrupulousness, are clearly infringing government granted rights, either in the form of patent or patents-applied-for of the older manufacturers.

Among those who addressed the meeting, besides the officers mentioned, were Mr. Andrea of F. A. D. Andrea & Co., and Messrs. Russ and Taylor of the law firm of Penne, Lavis, Marvin & Edmonds, which firm has been appointed counsel for the National radio chamber of commerce.

It is also planned that this body will decide whether or not its members should take part in public radio shows, many of which have been started throughout the country, and run merely for the purpose of exploiting manufacturers, and the public's interest in radio. The chamber of commerce does not plan to undertake the organization of radio shows, on its own part, at this time.

A credit bureau will also be shortly organized for the interchange of credit information.

TALKING AROUND WORLD

BY RADIO
Aladdin, with his fabled lamp, could never accomplish the miracle of modern radio, yet radio is still in its infancy. The human voice may now be flashed through the air, across the ocean to another hemisphere, and in another hemisphere it is caught and brought back to audible hearing.

The airplane soaring high and invisible in space may converse with the ground or ships at sea. Very soon the passenger in the commercial carrying passenger plane may call any subscriber in a city over which he is passing.

The time is fast approaching when we will talk around the world. Utilizing the equipment the United States possesses it is possible for London to talk with Cape Town, with Calcutta, with Hong Kong and Peking. The time is fast coming when the British premier will be able to hold daily conversations with the premiers of Canada and Australia, and the viceroy of India. These connections will be made as easily and even more rapidly than is now taken to call up a country house in Long Island from New York.

With the solution of 2-day conversation by radio and the design of apparatus which has made signaling and connection of radio equipment with the ordinary telephone exchange possible, there is nothing left to conquer in the field except to build more powerful apparatus capable of transmitting over long distances.

RADIO SUPPLANTS PIGEON
Radio telephony has practically eliminated the homing pigeon as a message carrier. During the war both the army and the navy developed the breed to the highest degree. The war left the navy with hundreds of pigeons for which it had no use.

Recently it was decided to get rid of the surplus birds, but not a single bird was received. Officials expressed the opinion that the development of the radio telephone has progressed sufficiently to monopolize the field occupied by the pigeons.

This One Man Radio Broadcasting Station Is Operated With Phonograph Diaphragm

By attaching a microphone to an ordinary phonograph diaphragm, this radio enthusiast has been able to get good results in sending out music. The instrument he uses is a one string affair, and is played with an ordinary violin bow.

FORM ORGANIZATION TO LIST ALL CALLS

Indianapolis.—All licensed amateur radio operators in Indiana are interested in the "unorganized organizations." The men and boys included in this body are always interested in learning the various distances at which their sending sets are heard and are interested in the description of sets belonging to other operators. Members of the organization have postcards, by which they correspond with each other. These postcards contain blanks for the names, address, station code, description of their sets and remarks. These are sent from man to man or boy to boy as the case may be.

BY ED WYNN

"Remember the fellow who mailed a postcard to his brother 10 miles away? Eleven years after it was mailed it was delivered. I can readily appreciate the poor fellow's feelings. I am still getting letters from those who listened in while I broadcasted. Like giving a performance and waiting two months for applause!"

"Mama Ether, Papa Ether and all the little Ethers are having a whale of a good time up there these nights, or else they're taking a lot of punishment!"

"A first night on the radio may come after the thousandth performance on the stage—but it at least will be good for a first-class case of 'stage fright.'"

"The ether did not seem to effect me for the reason, I suppose, that when I was a mere boy, I had three teeth pulled and—I'm used to Ether."

"Another thing. My father used to hire tailors, and they smelled of ether."

"As I was to do broadcasting, I wore my broad-rimmed hat; thought it might help."

"I tried to radiate good cheer, but it is very discouraging not to have reciprocity with a return laugh or even a giggle."

HE' HUNDRED YEARS OLD, BUT WANTS RADIO

Thomas Joseph West of Wheatley Hills, L. I., who celebrated his hundredth birthday recently, is planning to install a radio outfit. He considers the radio telephone the greatest of modern inventions.

MUSIC BY RADIO HEARD IN CHILE

A party of Americans, residents of Iquique, Chile, have been given a forcible reminder that distance is no barrier to the rapid stride of radio communication.

This party of Americans, officials of the Nitrate Agencies, Ltd., were visitors aboard the Grace Line steamship Santa Luisa. While they were seated in one of the reception rooms suddenly there came to them distinctly and clear a volume of music so plain that the notes of a violin playing a solo part could be distinguished as plainly as if the artist were in an adjoining room.

Following came an operatic selection by a well-known star, whose words and notes came with startling clearness through more than 600 miles of space—a cheering reminder of "home," of Broadway, bright lights, friends and, and familiar faces.

TO TRIP MOTOR CROOKS

Radiophone will be used to trip up motor thieves. This is the plan of John Wall, president of the Kansas branch of the Anti-Horse Thief association.

"If we could have radiophone communication between the various stations in the state," said Mr. Wall, "it would be the end of motor car stealing. By broadcasting instantaneously the information of a theft, we would have every sheriff and peace officer in the state looking for the thieves. I believe the plan has great possibilities and I am going to try to develop it to a practicable end."

OO! LA! LA!—LISTEN—

Wireless on Milady's parasol is the very latest fashion report from Paris.

A young Parisian inventor hopes shortly to enable the fashionable Parisienne when promenading the Bois de Boulogne to enjoy the strains of the orchestral music sent out by the Eiffel Tower, wireless, out by the latest scandal concerning her best friend and to receive a detailed report from her cook concerning the progress of the pot-au-feu for lunch.

This young inventor has placed the radio antennae in a parasol so that madame when expecting a communication from home or desiring to hear a concert has only to raise her dainty parasol and "listen in."

RADIO FOR FRENCH PILOT BOATS

France has established wireless telegraph posts at Rouen and pilot boats on the Seine which will be used to transmit messages relating to maritime affairs and the promotion of port services, according to the department of commerce. The pilot boats, it is reported by Consul M. B. Kirk of Rouen, will transmit by wireless the arrival of all vessels coming up the Seine on every tide to the postoffice and the postoffice will instruct the pilot vessels where to place the ships upon their arrival.

Three pilot boats have been equipped with radio using continuous waves averaging 520 meters. Ground stations employ 720 meters with an intermittent spark, except at night, when 600 meter waves are used, as in commercial work. When merchant vessels are not equipped with radio, urgent messages are transmitted for them to their brokers, via the postoffice, for 40 centimes per word. The public radio station at Belleville handles all other radio messages not affecting the port.

TAXI COMPANY WILL USE RADIO

The Yellow Taxicab company will use radio to expedite the handling of its fleet of 1600 yellow cabs in the Chicago district. Construction of a radiophone transmission plant on the roof of the company's main garage and installation of receiving stations at outlying garages, as well as portable receivers on the cars used by traveling superintendents, has been started. According to reports, the Western Electric company has undertaken the job.

Central office can in this way keep in touch with the superintendents, notify them when boats and trains are late, what hotels and railway stations need cabs, and many other details peculiar to the rapid handling of the public taxi trade.

SHIP'S POSITION TO BE ANNOUNCED BY WJZ

Through arrangements concluded by the Radio Corporation of America, the Newark radiophone WJZ broadcasts daily at 8 p. m. positions of vessels at sea as reported to the corporation's several stations along the Atlantic coast and forwarded to the Marine Radio Bureau, 64 Broad street, New York City.

It is expected this additional service will be of real benefit to everyone interested in ships and their movements.

DIRECTS BREAD DELIVERIES

The General Baking company has equipped its delivery trucks and wagons with radio receiving sets and deliveries of late orders are made in accordance with instructions transmitted by radiophone from its offices.

YOUNG BULLFIGHTER
LONDON, July 3.—George Boggs, aged twelve, will get better in future. His mother carried him unconscious from the Essex fields where he had been chasing a bull and waving a red handkerchief in front of the brute's nose. The bull demonstrated his disapproval by goring the seat of George's pants. George told the doctor that he was going to be a bullfighter when he grew up. He had been to see the movie of Ibanez's book, "The Matador," and had got all pepped up, his mother said.

CHEAP CATTLE IN BRAZIL, REPORTED

BUENOS AIRES, July 3.—Reports come from the Province of Cordoba to the effect that cattle owners are giving part of their herds away as they can no longer feed their animals and at the same time make a profit. There have been some cases in which a cattleman sold for a peso—about 45 cents gold—a head of cattle, and in the meantime a pound of steak is sold in Buenos Aires for the amount that a whole bull costs out in the country.

WIFE WENT TOO FAR
LONDON, July 3.—Alfred Adams, in a London police court, said he did not mind his wife smoking but that when she insisted on standing in the front doorway and doing it, and blew the smoke in his face when he remonstrated, he became annoyed. Mrs. Adams received two black eyes. The husband received a $3.75 fine.

NEW EAGLE ROCK STORE OPENS DOORS

Hardware and Furniture Company Meets With Big Reception

The opening of the Eagle Rock Hardware and Furniture company was the big event on the calendar for Saturday.

A large number of people visited the store during the day and they were warm in their approval of the new arrangements. There was music and punch was served; also souvenirs of flags, balloons and colored lights were given away.

The big display windows were attractively decorated. A very handsome dining room suite was grouped in one window, and on the other side was a large display of fruit jars and glasses of every size and description, hinting to the housewife that the canning season is at hand.

A big stock of furniture is being carried by the Eagle Rock Hardware and Furniture company, including rugs, carpets, linoleum and window shades, so that it is no longer necessary to go out of town to buy these furnishings. They also have a big assortment of dishes, crockery and household utensils. There, too, can be found everything necessary in the hardware line for the building of a house and the maintenance of it—from nails to paints and garden tools.

Man's leisure moments have not been overlooked, either, by this progressive firm, for they are the agents for the Winchester sporting goods, and can supply hunting and fishing licenses.

Messrs. Ritehey and Suits have shown in a very substantial way the great faith they have in the future of Eagle Rock City and their new store is a big asset to the town.

"Well," reported the new commercial traveler, swinging jauntily into the office, "I got two orders from Hardnut & Co., today." "Fine, fine!" exclaimed the manager, enthusiastically. "Yes. One to get out and the other to stay out."

GERMAN SCIENCE SEEKS JUDICIAL BASIS

Other Nations Try to Find the Secret of New Power

BERLIN, July 3. (United Press.)—German scientists, in secret, are seeking the great Ray, which may prove the key to waging of the next war.

The interrelated disarmament commission realizes this full well, but cannot ferret out the exact sources of the experiments, nor can it very well under its powers prevent this scientific research.

The Ray in itself may or may not be warlike; it may prove, too, a boon to humanity. Hence the commission is powerless to act, but it knows that if German science keeps up its record of other years it has a good chance to discover this hidden ray which scientists of other nations, too, are hunting as a possible war weapon.

The question-mark ray lies somewhere between the X-ray and the ultra-violet ray. There are, with rays, a series of octaves, as in music. The field between the X-ray and the ultra-violet ray consists of several octaves—an untouchable field which may contain a ray that would strike death and destruction to peoples and their goods.

Members of the interrelated commission believe that there may be developed a ray which will revolutionize warfare. So far, however, experiments have proven rather fruitless. An Italian claimed several years ago to have discovered a ray which could be transmitted through the air to ignite heaps of ammunition at a distance.

Investigation proved, however, that he was using a time fuse to assist in his "experiments" in blowing up munitions.

That there are rays yet unexploited is certain. Whether they possess a deadly power or a beneficent action, however, is still a mystery. And out of this mystery arises the peculiar designation of the much-sought ray—the "Ray."

The interrelated disarmament commission also finds that the German militarists are badly delaying work which should long since have been accomplished.

This information came from a member of the commission who pointed out that, particularly with the matter of munitions factories allowed to Germany for her present army, there is a tendency to balk the entente representatives at every turn.

The central government under Chancellor Wirth is not blamed for this proceeding. In fact, entente officials who have had business to transact with the chancellor find him an honest, straightforward man who has done more than any other official since the war toward fulfillment of German obligations and restoration of good relations with the outside world.

But officers of the old school still in the army establishment are putting obstacles in the commission's path. They decline to dismantle plants as rapidly as the commission demands. And they act apparently on the theory that they can pursue such dilatory tactics that they will tire out the commission.

The commission intends to stay until the disarmament work is completed, and completed to its satisfaction.

The plan put forth by the military for converting munitions plants foresees a period of four to five years; but the commission is insisting that this work be accomplished in much shorter time.

Gas masks have finally been denied the German army. This was due largely to the French fear that if masks were allowed, it would mean that experiments with gas development would be undertaken.

The navy, however, has been allowed 15,000 masks, as these were found to be necessary to protect gunners from the gases of big guns. There are, besides these masks, however, quite a quantity of gas masks in Germany, used in mines and in certain factories.

Intimations that German chemists were experimenting with war gases have come from time to time to the commission, but the latter is convinced that there is little to fear from these sources at the moment, especially as the outside world has made tremendous progress with gases since the war.

OKLAHOMA CANDIDATE BELIEVES SHE WILL WIN

Office on New Basis

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 3.—Campaign for congress with poetry!

That's what Miss Perle Dunham of Oklahoma City is doing. She is a candidate for congress for the place now held by Judge F. R. Swank.

On the back of her campaign cards she has printed the poem "Out Where the West Begins." "It's the spirit of the poem that caused me to put it on my cards and inject it into politics," Miss Dunham said today, quoting: "Out where the handclasp's a little stronger, Out where a smile dwells a little longer."

That's where the West begins.

Three Oklahoma women have entered the campaign for congressional seats. They are Miss Alice Robertson, who is a candidate for reelection, and, in addition to Miss Dunham, Mrs. Lamar Looney of Hollis, Okla., who is a candidate from the sixth district.

All have good opportunity to be elected, according to a canvass, and are causing the much-candidated to make a strenuous campaign.

Miss Dunham is nationally known as an orator, having given many addresses during the last presidential campaign for the Republican national committee. She also took active part in war work during the war in many parts of the country.

She is a candidate on a straight Republican ticket and has come out for better legislation to assist farmers; more special attention to the interests of women and children; just treatment for the soldier by the government.

She has been a strong supporter of woman's suffrage and was one of those in Oklahoma who helped make possible their recognition in politics.

This is the first time Miss Dunham has been a candidate for office, although she has taken an active part in affairs for years.

"I don't know the tricks of politics," she said.

"And I'm not sure that I want to know them."

"I am not making any promises in my campaign. An honest person can't do that as each situation must be worked out as it arises."

She is strong for women entering politics.

"To much of a separation is being made between men and women in world affairs," she declared.

"What interests men, interests women and visa versa."

"A line should not be drawn between men and women."

"The should work together, shoulder to shoulder, as they did during the war."

She believes that on womanhood rests equal responsibility with men for good government and states that is one of the reasons why she is a candidate.

"Poison" arguments will not be used by her in the campaign, when an old-time politician advised her to attack one of the three men candidates who are opposing her.

"I'll use sugar arguments," she said. "Sugar ferments."

DID NOT PRACTICE IT
WASHINGTON, July 3.—A rope company has a large sign outside its headquarters which reads: "Whatever you do, do it by gas."

The sign is lighted by electricity.

BRAZIL RENTS ARE HIGH ENOUGH FOR REVOLT

Matter of Reform of Another Government, It Was Found

BUENOS AIRES.—(By Mail.)—Ever since congress passed the two bills permitting house tenants to breathe easier for a spell of two years, a fierce controversy has been raging among lawyers in Buenos Aires.

The rent situation in 1921 could not be worse. It was a matter of reform or riot. Eighty percent of the inhabitants of this city were compelled to give over from one-half to two-thirds of their salaries to the real estate parasites as a tribute to the ancient habit of sleeping under a roof.

A common laborer, a letter carrier, a policeman, let us say, earning about 100 pesos, found himself paying over 60 to 80 pesos a month for a widowless room, ventilated scantily by air previously "purified" through the serried lines of so-called underwear crisscrossing the "patio," or common courtyard.

The white-collar employee was hardly better off. A little 3-room house would cost him anywhere from 160 to 200 pesos, and a deposit of two months' rent had to be given to the landlord, or satisfactory commercial guarantee issued. The clerks would consider betting at the races as their only hope, since the ten or twenty pesos sometimes left over at the end of the month could hardly go a long way.

It was a matter of reform or riot and the government had had enough riot on its hands and did not relish a further supply of that medicine. Three main opposing parties—Radicals (government party), Socialists and Democrats—all helped pass two laws, whereby pending evictions were suspended, subleasing forbidden, and rents reduced arbitrarily to the amount collected in 1920.

PARIS, July 3.—Four hundred miles an hour will be the speed of the huge airplanes which the French propose to use in trans-Atlantic service between Senegal, West Africa, and South America, according to M. Bleriot, the French air authority.

Soundings of the upper airways are to be made from ships and island stations and by kites and instrument-carrying balloons, in order to find the best routes and altitudes.

ST. MARK'S DRIVE U. S. TO BUILD

WINS FAVOR WITH BISHOP JOHNSON
OF ROADSRev. Stephens Asked to Supply Until Objective
Is Attained

The big drive to round up the absentee Episcopalians in Glendale, to unite them with St. Mark's church and through financial support, secure a permanent rector, was made the subject of congratulations yesterday at St. Mark's in a letter from Bishop Johnson, of the diocese, read by Rev. Nassau S. Stephens, who came from Hermosa beach to supply the church pulpit, vacated by the Rev. Dr. Cornell, because of ill health.

While Richard D. White has not announced the date of the opening of the drive, it is understood that it will be under way by the end of the week.

Senior Warden Hamilton has secured from the records of the last visitation, cards for use in the work of the drive.

The letter to the congregation, read yesterday, follows:

"To the members of the congregation of St. Mark's: I am writing this letter to congratulate you upon the splendid spirit which has been shown in your congregation during the incumbency of Dr. Cornell. Were it possible for him to remain on with you without a serious menace to himself, I would strive to secure his continuance in the work. That, however, is out of the question.

It now learn that under Dr. Cornell's influence, you have been stimulated to make a special effort to secure pledges which will enable the vestry to call a thoroughly first-class man to be the rector of St. Mark's.

"I want you to have in mind the fact that in the providence of God our organization stands in Glendale for the tradition of the church to which you are attached. Everything depends upon the spirit of initiative and inspiration with which the church as a body undertakes and carries out this work.

"Let this 'every member' canvass, evoke from every baptized person a willingness to do what they can at this time for the advancement of the cause of Christ, and for the glory of His church.

"Believe me,

"Very truly yours,

Joseph Horsfall Johnson,

"Bishop of Los Angeles."

To make the drive a success and achieve sufficient financial support for the calling of a permanent rector, it is only necessary to secure pledges amounting to $25,000 to $300, approximately a $2,500 increase yearly in the church income. There are said to be 1200 inclined to the Episcopal church in Glendale.

The services at St. Mark's were conducted by the Rev. Stephens in a manner to win instant approval. His sermon on "God is Love" was

Engineers Lay Out Comprehensive Plan of Building

WASHINGTON, July 1.—A system of highways that will serve the whole country and will be far superior to any in the world is being mapped out by the federal and state government engineers. It is estimated that the system will comprise 180,000 miles of road.

The federal highway act recently enacted specifically states that all federal aid be spent on a connecting system of highways, consisting of not more than 7 per cent of the total road mileage in the state, and that this system shall consist of interstate or primary roads and intercounty or secondary roads.

Many states have already adjusted difficult problems with their neighbors. As an example, the system sent in by Nebraska showed a big gap in an important road along the northern border. It is learned, however, that South Dakota would follow with a system that would fill like pictures on a toy block. Since the federal highway act of last November became a law, only roads certain to be on the system have been approved for construction.

masterly in thought and rendition. Although the Rev. Mr. Stephens is a retired minister, he answered the call of the church, left without a pastor by the enforced retirement of Dr. Cornell, rounding out a little more than the fortieth year of the ministry.

The Rev. Mr. Stephens is said to be independently wealthy, and to have taken an interest in the aspiration of the Glendale church. He has been asked to serve until the drive is over and a permanent rector is called.

REV. CRIST TELLS OF DIMENSIONS OF
THE KINGDOMContinues Discourse of Morning in Evening Services

At the First Methodist church Sunday evening Dr. C. M. Crist continued the discussion of his morning theme, "The Dimensions of the Kingdom." The text was Eph. 3:18-19, "That ye may be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, length, height and depth of the Love of Christ." Dr. Crist said in part:

"Among the outstanding prayers of the Bible is that one from which the text is taken. It is Paul's prayer for the Ephesian church. In this prayer he lays bare his sincere heart and expresses his sincere longing for the advancement of the Kingdom of God in the world. As vitally connected with the progress of the kingdom he expresses his desire that those who were disciples of Jesus should come to know the extent of Christ's love; the breadth, the height, the length and the depth of the passion of the eternal for the saving of a lost world.

"The breadth of the kingdom suggests the fact that Christ's program takes in all races. The teaching presented is revolutionary. The Jew was selfish and self-centered. Christ's gospel comes to all men. 'He came to his own (the Jews), but his own received him not, but to as many as received him (Jew or Gentile), to them gave he the power to become the sons of God.'

So that there has resulted the spread of the gospel to all heathen races, and we find those who a few years ago were eating human flesh, and were in the very depths of barbarism, are repeating the Twenty-third Psalm, and the Thirteenth Chapter of I Corinthians, and singing, 'Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow.'

"The breadth of Christianity suggests also the inclusion of all truth, science and philosophy are not conflicting with the Bible, when properly understood, but are handmaidens to the word of God.

"The 'length' of the kingdom suggests the fact that we need not be afraid of Christianity history. That which met the needs of yesterday will adjust itself to the world of today and to that of tomorrow. Individually it is true also, Christ meets the child, the youth, to more mature and those in old age, and supplies all their needs."

"The 'height' of our religious faith brings to us the fact that Jesus is equal to man's intellectual and spiritual requirements. The simple gospel of Jesus satisfies the most cultured and the wisest of men.

"The final dimension, the 'depth' of Christ's love, shows to the world the extent to which our Lord goes to save the lost. No man is so far down in sin but that Jesus Christ is by his side waiting to become to him a personal savior. Jesus Christ is walking through the dark shadows of the world's sin and is saying to men everywhere, 'I gave myself a ransom for you.'

PACIFIC AVENUE
CHURCH RAISES
$357 OF FUNDCampaign to Carry Over to Convention Will Continue This Week

In spite of the fact that the congregations were not large yesterday at the Pacific Avenue Community Methodist church, Rev. Harley G. Preston reports that $357 was raised in two and a half months' subscriptions. The local campaign will continue this week. He announces, in order that the balance, $343, needed to carry the church over to conference be subscribed for by next Sunday, inclusive. Mr. Preston wishes to state that these pledges can be made so that final installments may be paid on or before September 17, 1922. Friends or members who are interested in the church will send pledge or check to Treasurer Harold Adams, 153 South Pacific avenue, Glendale.
